The image shows a detailed topographic map of the Pöyliövaara area in Tampere, Finland. The map features contour lines indicating elevation, with a prominent red dashed line outlining the proposed planning area. The area is divided into several sections, some of which are colored in green, yellow, and purple, likely representing different land use zones or ownership. A small body of water, labeled 'Ojanperän alue', is visible in the upper right. The map includes various labels for streets, landmarks, and specific plot numbers. The overall terrain appears to be a mix of developed and undeveloped land, with the red dashed line suggesting a boundary for future urban planning.
